There's a need for great workstations, whether you're working in the office, remotely, or a hybrid of both. Wellness, comfort, and productivity also play a big role in attracting and retaining talent. With Vari, you can be confident that you have a flexible and future-proof workspace.

THE NEW WAY TO FURNISH YOUR OFFICE

Fast

We looked at the slow buying process for traditional office furniture and found a better way. By having inventory in stock and ready to ship, we can fully furnish offices in days, not months.

Flexible

It's important that your office furniture adapts to your needs. Whether it's going from sitting to standing, using privacy panels to give your teams space, or reconfiguring your entire office's workspace design, our products make it easy to update and change.

Simple

We make the process of planning your office easy. Our workspace design team will work with you to create a space plan and specify which products will best fit your needs. We also offer free installation and delivery for qualifying projects.

BREAKING THE MOLD

We started with the original VariDesk® desktop converter to relieve back pain and create a happier, healthier, and more productive work environment for everyone. The design encouraged people to be more active throughout the workday. Today, our VariDesk line of converters is the world's leading sit-stand solution, available in multiple sizes and styles to fit almost any workspace.

CHOOSING TO SIT-STAND

Sit-stand desks and converters aren't a new trend. Over the years, research into the effects of having sit-stand desks in the workplace produced positive outcomes for individuals and companies alike.

People who use a sit-stand desk while working experienced a positive impact on back, neck, and hip pain as well as physical activity, standing time, and cognitive function¹.

When companies offer sit-stand desks, employees report an increase in job performance and work engagement². It signals to current, new, and prospective employees that the company cares for their overall well-being.
